The Aquanaut Unico 1100 Fly is a sporty-lined steel motor yacht that behaves like a faithful companion on rivers and in coastal waters. Its calm lines and solid construction exude confidence and invite both short trips and multi-day trips.

With a length of 11.40 meters and a width of about 3.70 meters, the interior offers a compact but full-fledged layout. In the bow a cabin with two single beds, a spacious dinette and a practical galley, while in the saloon the inside steering position is placed, a cupboard wall and an L-shaped bench. The large windows let in plenty of natural light, making the interior feel spacious and inviting. In the stern there is a separate toilet room with electric toilet and sink, a separate bathroom with shower and washbasin and the owner's cabin with a single bed and a double bed, a spacious closet and plenty of storage space under the beds.

On top of the saloon is the flybridge with the steering position, from which you have excellent all-round visibility. Because the steering position is placed on the flybridge, a spacious aft deck is created that lends itself well to placing a garden set or lounge sofa to enjoy and relax.

The drive consists of a powerful 135 hp engine, this in combination with a hull shape with continuous keel and bilge keels ensure directional stability and peace during the journey. The same bilge keels provide extra stability, on rivers and coastal waters if they belong to the intended sailing area. With a bow and stern thruster, the yacht is also easy to maneuver on narrow waters and in busy harbors.
