Jetten Bully 800 with outside helm position

The Jetten Bully 800 is a sturdy and compactly built motorboat that is particularly suitable for a variety of sailing areas due to its low headroom and shallow draught. Thanks to the short turning radius and a bow thruster, the Bully is excellent for maneuvering and effortless sailing in narrow canals and busy harbors, while the 27 hp Yanmar engine ensures relaxed trips during days out, weekends away or longer holidays. The surprisingly spacious feeling on board stems from the clever layout and the efficient use of the available space, especially when the cockpit doors are open.

Inside you will find a mahogany interior that gives the eight-meter-long Bluesbrother a warm appearance. In the foreship there is an open connection with a V-bed, cupboard space and a toilet room. A small staircase leads to the saloon, where the inside steering position and the dinette with a view to the outside form a comfortable place. The dinette can also be converted into an additional sleeping place. The centrally placed galley is equipped with a worktop, a two-burner gas stove, a sink and a refrigerator, so you have all the basic amenities on board.

The self-draining open cockpit is equipped with a cockpit tent and forms a nice outdoor space with a comfortable bench, ideal for beautiful days on the water. But also an outside steering position for the real outdoor feeling, extra control when manoeuvring and is ideal in good weather. The well-used gangways and various stainless steel details, such as railing, roof railing, bollards and the swimming platform with swimming ladder, give the Bully a neat and complete appearance.
